Ko wai au

I was born and raised in Te Rarawa rohe, beneath Panguru, Te Reinga, and Tauwhare maunga in a farming whānau, the importance of working hard for the betterment of our kāinga has always been instilled into me by our people. They led by example through their hard work and their unwavering sense of identity. These teachings have shaped the path of not only my career but my decision to dedicate myself to the pursuit of addressing the persistent power imbalance between Māori and the systems designed around us, the pursuit of getting our land back, and to ensuring that I contribute to growing and enabling more leaders to go on and take the baton long after I am gone. I am Principal at Te Kura Taumata O Panguru.
